-Yesterday morning, at an early hour, about 400 persons, composed of the employes of Ogden's Malleable Iron Works, at Ninth and Jefferson streets, left that point in the ears of the Philadelphia, Germantown, and Norristown Railroad, for the purpose of spending the day at Falls of Schuylkill. While on their way, a number of men not belonging to the works, who had got on the train, commenced a disturbance

The party reached the falls, where they embarked for the surrounding grounds, but during the day were annoyed by the persons referred to. At the hour appointed the excursionists again took the cars, and while on their way to the city were annoyed by the turbulence of the men in question.

On reaching Ninth and Columbia avenue the riotors again showed a disposition to renew the disturbance, and at one time the crowd and excitement became so great that Christopher Balz, keeper of a public house at this point, was obliged to close his place and spring his rattle for assistance. A number of policemen soon came. Several of the Manayunk policemen at this juncture succeeded in capturing three of the rioters, and took them in charge, conveying them back to Manayunk, where they were locked up for a hearing.

-By an ordinance of the city, bathing in the Schuylkill, below Girard avenue bridge, is prohibited. CHICAGO, July 22.-The Ecclesiastical Court assembled at 9.80 A. M., when the president announced that the exceptions taken yesterday afternoon by the counsel for the accused, and which had been held for advisement, were overruled. Mr. Fulton rose and said: "We have up to this time presented such objections as we had to the jurisdiction and to the various papers that have been laid before you, and to the Court of which you are the presiding officer, until we have reached a point at which we shall go no further. I have applied to the Superior Court of Chicago for an injunction, which has been granted, against all further proceedings in the case. We have determined that if our client was smitten it shall not be contrary to law, and we have been compelled to pursue this course. The Sheriff of Cook county, who is present, will please serve the gentlemen whom he will find named in the writ." The Sheriff then proceeded to serve his writs in due form, his entrance being greeted with loud and continued applause by the audience, thus giving unmistakable evidence of the sympathics of a large majority. As soon as he could be heard, the President demanded order, and said if such demonstrations should again occur he would order the house cleared. The Court then retired for consultation, and on returning announced an adjournment until two P. M. tomorrow.

Foreign Affairs.

London, July 22 .- In the House of Lords, to-night, there was a full attendance, and many members of the House of Commons were present. The consideration of the amendments to the Irish Church bill was resumed.

Earl Granville opened the debate by stating that her Majesty's Ministers regarded the vote of Tuesday night as one of very grave character, but they were unwilling to prevent the consideration of the other amendments to the bill, and were anxious to conduct the discussion in a spirit of peace and conciliation. He proposed the reinsertion of the original date of disestablishment, namely, January 1, 1871, but should not insist on a division, and if the motion was contrary to the feeling of the House he would withdraw it.

Lord Cairns said that since the adjournment he had had a conference with Earl Granviile. He (Lord Cairns) thought the amendments remaining few and capable of solution. He was glad to find Earl Granville was actuated by a similar spirit. Nothing could be more culpable on either side than to encourage or protract a controversy on a measure of this kind, where the materials for a solution were at hand. With that view and that sentiment, everything which took place at the conference accorded. He argued that the question of date was of secondary importance, and declared that he was ready to accept the original date. He advised the Lords not to insist on residences or commutation of annuities. If three-fourths of a diocese were willing to commute, they would have twelve instead of seven per cent. added.

The question with respect to the disposition of the surplus might be left over; but power should be given to Parliament to apply a portion of the fund to the alleviation of unavoidable calamity. He concluded by admitting that he still had strong objections to the bill; but, if it was to pass at all, it was not for the interest of the country or the Church to prolong the struggle on minor details.

The Marquis of Salisbury, Earl Russell and other leading peers, accepted the compromise, and praised the conduct of Lord Cairns in the present emergency. The motion for the restoration of the original date of disestablishment was agreed to, and the other amendments were disposed of according to the terms of compromise. Clause 68 was altered, so that none of the surplus shall be applied without the separate and distinct sanction of Parliament.

Earl Brandon and the Bishop of Tuam protested against the compromise.

Earl Granville thanked Lord Cairns for the frankness with which he had entered into confidential communication with the government in order to smooth down the difficulties in the way of the bill.

London, July 22 .- The Times, alluding to the recent agrarian outrages in Ireland, says that centuries of misrule have planted perverse views in the Irish peasants' breasts, which must disappear under beneficent and enlightened legislation. For this reason, we trust in such measures of justice as the Irish Church bill, which should not be left unsettled a moment longer than can be avoided. Until it is settled, there is little hope for tranquillity in Ireland, and the gravest results are to be apprehended from a temporary postponement. Heavy, indeed, is the responsibility of those who have the power to rescue this measure from delay. Paris, July 22 .- The Ministerial Council have prepared and presented to the Emperor the basis of a Senatus Consultum, giving effect to the political reforms proposed in the Emperor's message to the Corps Legislatif. Since the prorogation of the Corps Legislatif, the arrested at Portsmouth, N. H., for crueity to | consider what action they should take under the circumstances. M. Thiers presented and explained his protest against the attitude of the government toward the Chamber, and then proceeded to develop the programme of political reform, but the propositions were considered too monarchical by the Democrats and were rejected.

Jules Favre advocated silence for the present, and others favored a dissolution of the Chamber. The meeting adjourned without arriving at any conclusion.

HAVANA, July 22 .- Two citizens of the United States, named Printado and Cabias, who have been in prison since February, and Senor Guierrez, a Mexican, have been released through the intercession of the American Consul. The Aldamas mansion in this city, confiscated by the government, has been turned into a casino for the officers of the volunteers. The total number of estates belonging to rebels which have been embargoed by the government to this date is 1200. Advices from Fernando Po represent that the Cuban prisoners are in good health.

Arrived, steamship Eagle, from New York.

OBITUARY.

John A. Roebling. The death of John A. Roebling, Esq., the distinguished engineer, which has been expected for some days past, took place this forenoon. He had been suffering for some days from an injury to his foot, resulting in the loss of the toes, when gangrene set in and rendered recovery impossible. Mr. Roebling was a native of Mulhausen, in Thuringia, and was born June 12, 1806. He was educated at the Royal Polytechnic School at Berlin, graduating with the degree of civil engineer, After graduation he served the government for three years in the superintendence of public works in Westphalia, and then emigrated, at the age of twenty-five, to this country. His first home was near Pittsburg, Pa., where he commenced the feats of engineering which have made his name world famous. His first work was in improving the Beaver river, Ohio, by a canal and slack-water. In this and similar enterprises, Mr. Roebling spent several years, leaving them to engage in the manufacture of iron wire, a business which he has never quit, and which has made him one of the wealthiest men in the country. His great reputation was won in the building of aqueducts and bridges supported by wire cables. His first work of this kind, the then he has erected numerous structures of the same sort in all parts of the country. The most noted of these bridges are that over the Monongahela, at Pittsburg, the Niagara Suspension Bridge, with a span of 825 feet, which was finished in 1855, and the bridge over the Ohio, at Cincinnati, which has a span of 1005 feet, and was finished in At the time of the accident which led to his death, Mr. Roebling was making preparations for the erection of the bridge between this city and Brooklyn, which was to eclipse

NEW GOLDEN EAGLE FURNACE.

This is an entirely new heater. It is so constructed so to once commend itself to general favor, being a combination of wrought and cast iron. It is very simple in its construction, and is perfectly air-tight; self-cleaning, having no pipes or drums to be taken out and cleaned. It is so arranged with upright flues as to produce a larger amount of heat from the same weight of coal than any furnace now in use. The hygrometric condition of the air as produced by my new arrangement of evaporation will at once demonstrate that it is the only Hot Air Furnace that will produce a perfectly healthy atmosphere.

Those in want of a complete Heating Apparatus would do well to call and examine the Golden Eagle.
